

Like the weather and traffic on the satellite radio to know what's happening when I am traveling. I don't do commercial radio any more because I do not care for it. I prefer listening to my choice stations. Xm has the best, as far as I can tell, and adding the traffic and weather was merely icing on the cake. The truth is that the commercial stations use the same satellites to get this information so I do not see why this is a problem. You cannot regulate information that's available to anyone with proper equipment.
